My Cloud Story:

JH: Okay, tell me something about clouds.

JO: Sometimes I go to a quiet spot around my house in the yard and just lay on the ground and look at clouds in order to clear my mind.

JH: You do? How long do you like to lie there?

JO: Sometimes I just go out there and look at clouds. sometimes it be anger and the clouds help to make it go away.

JH: Tell me the process. You know, the beginning of the anger and how the clouds help to make it go away.

JO: Sometimes I just be angry about memories because I know I can do better, and I just go out there and think to myself, "What am I doing wrong?" "What makes me get this grief?" And a whole lot of stuff going through my head while I look at clouds because when I think of clouds I think of calm, being myself, being a leader not a follower.
